[4] – Chair’s Report

“2026 will be the 15th anniversary of the formation of the Sandwich Community Events Association. The SCEA was created after both the inaugural Le Weekend in 2010 and inaugural Folk and Ale Festival in 2011 were added to the events programme in Sandwich. Prior to these events (both of which were initiated by Steve Laslett) the annual events were the Sandwich Festival (established in 1994) during the August Bank Holiday weekend and the Christmas Lights on the Saturday before the First Sunday off Advent.

Le Weekend was initially introduced as a fundraiser for the Sandwich-Honfleur Twinning Association but due to the revenue being generated from the cycling event ‘Le Tour de Sandwich’ it was immediately apparent that income would exceed the funds required for the objectives of the twinning association.

Concern expressed about the ongoing viability to the town’s hospitality businesses in Sandwich and District Chamber of Commerce meeting in January 2011 led to the introduction of the Folk and Ale Festival.

The catalyst for the creation of the SCEA was the cost of insurance with each individual event being c.£700, to date the SCEA blanket insurance represents a +60% saving in total expenditure if applied across the existing events.

2025 has presented a number of challenges with funding and costs imposed by local authorities perhaps being the most pertinent.

Revenue streams do appear to be diminishing although I am encouraged that recent communication with businesses located on Discovery Park might facilitate a presentation about the events programme in Sandwich and its impact on the local economy.

Additionally, I have liaised with Bespoke Security Solutions on obtaining preferential rates for any security requirements across all events as a means of achieving costs savings.

The new website which has been created by Jack Sheppard is almost ready to go live and has the potential to engage local retailers etc. as a potential source of additional income.

The introduction of a parking loss revenue compensations scheme by DDC was a significant negative for all involved in organisation events – the scheme involved administration costs of £75 to include 5 on-street parking bays or ten off-street parking bays with additional bays of being levied as £12.00 per day for on-street parking bays and £10.80 a day for off-street parking bays. The imposition of these charges remain unjustifiable, but it was particularly unacceptable to not have clarification of these costs until April this year – when speculation on what the costs might be had been permitted to become a feature of events committee meetings.

The events of 2025 have predominately been successfully with Le Weekend being in the weakest position due to the loss of Le Tour de Sandwich along with fewer stallholders for the French Market post-Brexit. The medieval encampment on the Quay Green was impressive and no doubt propped up the somewhat weaker offer in Sandwich town centre. An evaluation meeting after the conclusion of Le Weekend identified the need for an organising committee which will be addressed in an effort to improve upon this year's event.

In May, the first event on the programme (less than a week before the 80th anniversary of the VE Day celebrations) – Sandwich Salutes the 40s (with Simon Mallett once again organising) was a great success.

In July, the Folk and Ale Festival evidently goes from strength to strength and probably sets the benchmark for other events to aspire to.

During August the 50s Festival is now a well-established and popular addition to the events calendar.

More via accident than design the Sandwich Festival during the August Bank Holiday weekend exceeded expectations – the event being hastily arranged after the conclusion of Le Weekend.

We now looked forward to the Christmas Lights switch-on scheduled for Saturday 29th November with Jack Sheppard having been elected as Chair of the organising committee in March.

Clearly in spite of the challenges the appetite for the town's events remains strong – both from the public and from those involved in the organisation of our events. I look forward to ongoing involved."

Colin Wiles and Dean Marie to look into a more coordinated effort for the Sandwich Festival.

[5] – Treasurer's Report and Annual Accounts

Accounts received from Steve Laslett.

Jack Sheppard detailed the income and expenditure. There is enough in the account to pay for essentials such as event insurance and utilities. The streetsweeper shed next to the WI building is using electricity and Veolia have been invoiced for this.

Proposed by Mark Moorhouse and seconded by Harry Sampson. Accounts approved.

[7] – Any Other Business

Simon Mallett arrived and joined the meeting.

Abby Taylor proposed affiliate members would together contribute towards half the cost of securing yearly event insurance. All event Chairs to be contacted. Simon Mallett proposed applying to the soon-to-be active Maddox fund to cover the insurance.

Pete LeFevre suggested applying for funding to get a new good-quality stage, rather than having to borrow stages from local schools each time.

Dean Marie queried the parking bay and road closure charges. General consensus was this, along with waste collection and security costs, are unlikely to change in the immediate future.

Jack Sheppard is looking into finding an accredited body that could provide certifications for volunteers. This could look good on CVs and attract new volunteers.
